Re: Freedom of Information Act request NGC14-055

Dear [redacted]:

This is in response to your letter, dated December 8, 2013, whereby you sought a copy of "the document or documents for implementing regulations related to the Affordable Care Act that has been published in the Federal Register." Your request was received in this office on December 12, 2013, and assigned tracking number NGC14-055.

The Federal Register system is an official legal information service of the United States government. The Federal Register legal system operates under the general authority of the Administrative Committee of the Federal Register (ACFR), and the specific statutory and regulatory authority of the Office of the Federal Register (OFR). The OFR functions as the Secretariat for the ACFR, and is a component of the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA). NARA is joined in a statutory partnership with the U.S. Government Printing Office (GPO) to provide Federal Register publications and services to the public under the Federal Register Act (44 U.S.C. Ch. 15), the GPO Access legislation (44 U.S.C. 4101), and related public information laws of the United States. This web site is an e-Government service of the NARA/GPO partnership.

The FederalRegister.gov web site is administered by the OFR and operates under the technical auspices of the GPO. This site hosts the Federal Register Electronic Public Inspection Desk, which provides full-text, global access to the pre-publication versions of documents scheduled to appear in the Federal Register on GPOaccess.gov and in printed format. This site also functions as a portal to the official Federal Register publications on GPOaccess.gov, and to Federal Register information services on Archives.gov.

It is to this web site: https://www.federalregister.gov/ that you will find the documents related to your request. I entered the search term "Affordable Care Act" and found 12,483 articles connected to that term. Aside from the records available online, the National Archives does not have any documents for implementing regulations.
